Background

The City recently invited public comment for name suggestions for the new “ice park”, scheduled to open in fall of 2024. The park will feature a covered concrete slab, an outdoor rink, and a skating loop. The City received more than 70 name suggestions.

The park & recreation commission considered these names at their February meeting. They gave priority to names that highlighted the multi-purpose, year-round use potential of the facility.

The commission voted to recommend Glacier Gardens as their first choice, and Spirit Park as their second choice.

Part of the discussion included a recommendation from the hockey group that the name should be able to accommodate potential sponsors and naming rights. For example: “<Sponsor Name> Pavilion at Spirit Park” or “<Sponsor Name> Rink at Glacier Gardens.”
